

Deborah Boone

Deborah Boone is an Assistant Vice President at Deutsche Asset and Wealth Management. Deborah started her career at Deutsche Bank as a Relationship Manager for insurance clients before recently transitioning into the Office of the COO for Active Asset Management.

As an SEO Career Program alum, Deborah saw a need for mentors in the SEO Scholars Program, an academic program for high potential NYC public high school students. She worked with her co-founder and advocates from the SEO Staff to launch the inaugural Junior Leadership Board (JLB). In addition to serving as Co-Chair of the JLB, Deborah has mentored Career Program students and served on panels for the Asset Management cohort during the summer. In addition to SEO, her community engagement involves serving on the Philanthropy committee for a Deutsche women's affinity group. She is also in the New York Junior League and a Mentor-Coach for New York Needs You.

Additionally, Deborah is an avid runner. She finished the New York Road Runners (NYRR) 9+1 program which qualifies her for guaranteed entry into the 2014 New York City Marathon. This involved finishing nine NYRR races and volunteering for one during the 2013 season. Originally from North Texas, Deborah attended Hampton University where she served as President of the Leadership Application Program and graduated Magna Cum Laude.
