

Karla Figueroa is a Senior Consultant in Ernst and Young's (EY's) Advisory division. Prior to joining EY, Karla was a Strategy and Analytics Consultant for IBM Global Business Services. Karla's experiences include the delivery of a securities-based lending product in the wealth management division of a financial services corporation and a front-to-back assessment of the investment banking division of a financial services holding company. Karla provides strategy, technology, and operations recommendations to address business priorities across organizations. Her skills include project management, business analysis, and process improvement.

Outside of EY, Karla continues to advance her work in economic empowerment and educational opportunity. At Sponsors for Educational Opportunity (SEO), an organization dedicated to assisting students from underserved backgrounds reach their academic and career potential, she founded the Scholars Mentor Council and currently serves as the Vice Chair of the Junior Leadership Board and an SEO Scholars, SEO-U, and SEO Career mentor. Additionally, Karla is the Secretary of the Board of Trustees at the Bronx Lighthouse Charter School, where she provides strategic oversight to ensure the success of the school.

Karla is a 2016 Management Leaders for Tomorrow (MLT), Forté Foundation Launch, and New Leaders Council Fellow. Karla attended Beloit College in Beloit, Wisconsin, and graduated magna cum laude in 2013 with a Bachelors of Arts in International Relations and Economics and a minor in Chinese.

In her free time, Karla likes to participate in running series, try her hand at her mother's unequalled Mexican recipes, and read long journalism pieces.
